

MODULE 6

Learning Outcomes

By the end of Module 6, you will be able to:

- Choose instructional strategies based on assessments
- Convert several in-person strategies for online classes
- Define accessibility and describe the importance of making materials accessible
- Describe how copyright laws apply to online course materials
- Create instructional strategies that correlate with your learning outcomes and assessment strategies

Instructional Strategies

In Module 6, you'll take the final step in backward course design - planning learning experiences and instruction. You will consider the kind of instructional materials that best equip your students to succeed in their assessments, and you will identify specific course materials and digital tools that align with your learning outcomes.

TEACH

Map your assessments to instructional strategies and learn how copyright and accessibility impacts online content

CREATE

Continue filling in your Course Design Matrix, create two instructional materials for your course

DISCOVER

Discover alternatives to lecture and in-person activities through a series of Padlets

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA SYSTEM
DIGITAL LEARNING INITIATIVE